TWO OFFICIALS KILLED TODAY IN PRISON RIOT

Trouble Starts When Convicts Dynamite Main Gates and Wall In Desperate Attempt to Escape

QUICK WORK OF GUARD AND POLICE PREVENT ANY ESCAPING

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—Two prison officials were shot to death and a number of convicts were wounded more or less seriously today in a riot in western penitentiary after hours of fighting during which riot guns, tear gas bombs, clubs and bricks were used, prison guards assisted by county detectives and Pittsburgh police quelled the riot which started when convicts used explosives in an effort to dynamite their way to freedom. No prisoners escaped.

The dead include William Pieffer, assistant deputy warden and J. A. Cad, overseer. More than a thousand prisoners had just breakfasted when the explosion, apparently due to outside persons, ripped the main gates and tore out a section of the wall. Fifteen convicts when then were on their way to work in the prison shops, rushed for liberty. They were intercepted by Pieffer and Cox, but were overpowered and shot. The prison yard then became a battle ground with quickly mobilized guards holding them at bay with riot guns.

SEN. MOSS SPEAKER AT LINCOLN DINNER

Thousand May Attend Banquet in Louisville Tuesday Night

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 11.—Tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, statesman, President and Great Emancipator, will be paid by sons and daughters of his native state—Kentucky—at the tenth annual Lincoln Day dinner to be given by the Lincoln Protective Club next Tuesday night, February 12, at the Brown hotel.

Everything is in readiness for the dinner, which promises to be the biggest and best ever given by the club. Reservations already made exceed the number that has ever attended one of these dinners in the past. According to Fred O. Neutzel, president of the Lincoln Club, the attendance this year will exceed 800, and may reach 1,000, which will necessitate an overflow meeting in one of the dining rooms of the Brown, adjoining the main ballroom where the main dinner will be served.

The program this year will be in charge of Richard Bean, president of the Louisville National Bank, who will preside as toastmaster. The speakers will include former Gov. Richard Yates, of Illinois, present congressman from the state-at-large; James W. Turner, banker of Paintsville and member of the Republican State Central Committee from the Tenth District, and Senator White L. Moss, of Pineville.

There will be a musical program at the opening and close of the dinner, furnished by Bailey Rapp's orchestera. The guests will join in vocal selections including "The Star Spangled Banner," "My Old Kentucky Home," and "America."

One of the features of the dinner this year will be the presence of veterans of the Civil War, some of whom voted for "Lincoln for President." These veterans will be guests of honor at the dinner and occupy reserved seats near the speakers' table.

Tickets for the dinner can be secured from any member of the Committee through Monday, but Tuesday they will only be sold at state headquarters in the Republic building. At the request of Robert H. Lucas, general chairman for the dinner, every member of the committee on arrangements will serve as a member of the reception committee to meet and introduce strangers. Delegates to the Republican State Convention, republican members of the Legislature and republican senators and representatives in Congress from Kentucky will be included among the guests at the dinner.

Indignant Public Protests Expulsion of Cow From City

A number of persons have come to the defense of the homely but extremely useful cow and, in all probability, the city will not take action excluding the animal from the city limits.

"I am in favor of allowing cows within the city, provided they are kept in a manner which will not be offensive to persons of the neighborhood," Commissioner C. E. Cooke stated. "The number of complaints have been comparatively few and I think if the laws regarding sanitation are properly enforced there will be no necessity of barring cattle from town."

Mayor J. H. Keeney is investigating the matter and seems also inclined to favor the maintenance of such animals under proper condition and, it is thought, steps to compel sanitation will be the extent of mandatory action.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF WINONA GIRL

Child Drops Dead While Playing—Mines Closed Today for Funeral

Mystery surrounds the sudden death of Wanda Nola Noah, 12, daughter of Garfield Noah, Winona, Sunday afternoon.

The girl was playing near the house with other children of the neighborhood. Suddenly she sprang into the air and exclaimed: "Something hit me!" With these words she fell to the ground, lifeless.

Dr. J. T. Evans who was hurriedly summoned examined the body but could find no trace of a wound. Efforts were made to have a coroner's inquest held but the presence of such an officer could not be obtained. Carl Newman, undertaker, also examined the body and reported there was no wound.

Neighbors say there was some shooting in the mountains about a quarter of a mile distant at about the time the girl died. Lack of any visible wound, however, indicates that death resulted from some other cause.

The girl was very popular in her community, having been a child of extraordinary intellect and having many lovable qualities. The Winon mines are not running today on account of the funeral which took place in the Yellow Creek cemetery at 2 o'clock.

ASK BUILDING OF 14 SECTIONS MORE STREET

Resolution Passes First Reading of Commissioners This Morning—Reports of City Departments Made

TO PUSH COLLECTION OF OUTSTANDING BACK FINES

Addition of fourteen sections of streets to the building program of the year was made in a resolution which passed the first reading at the commissioners' meeting this morning.

These blocks of streets will be reconstructed or improved in the same manner as other work completed or planned here. The blocks are some which were omitted from the frist list recently published and comprise the following:

Twentieth street from Cumberland avenue to canal reserve; Twentieth, Amesbury to Ashbury; Ashbury to 19th to Twentieth, Thirty-fifth, Exeter to Winchester; Winchester, Thirtyfifth to Thirty-eighth; Thirty-eighth, Winchester to Exeter; Lynwood, Englewood to Ellenwood; Ellenwood, Lynwood to Ironwood; Ironwood to Ellenwood to lots four, five and six, block 411 thence southward to Bloomsbury; Bloomsbury to Nineteenth; Cumberland, Tenth to Ninth; Ninth, Cumberland to Avondale; Exeter, Twenty-first to Twentieth.

Objection to paying a bill for $75 rendered to the city by T. G. Anderson for legal work in defending the city in a suit instituted by the taxi drivers was made by Commissioner C. E. Cooke. He claimed that R. L. Maddox, city attorney, prepared all the papers in the case but was unable to be present at the actual hearing of the case in circuit court. He claimed that Judge Anderson was not authorized by the city to assist in the work, that the defense of the suit came in the regular duties of the city attorney. Action on the matter was deferred until further investigation.

Reports from all the city departments were made, Frank Kearns, city collector, reporting $3617.93 in back taxes, polls and license collected during the month. Bills were read and all were approved except that just mentioned and the bill for feeding city prisoners. Mr. Cooke stated that one man had been taking only one meal a day at the jail and that charge for three meals was doubtless an oversight.

It was stated that a considerable number of back fines is still outstanding and that instructions woul be given the chief of police for their immediate collection.

Request for a building permit to erect a frame garage building on city property at Tenth street and Cumberland avenue was made by J. T. Johnson. Action on this was withheld until the status of the property rights is more clearly determined.

Mayor J. H. Keeney was not present at the meeting. Commissioner J. E. Evans presided.

Mother Seeks Missing Son Believed To Be Employed in Mine Near Here

This office is in receipt of a letter from Ashburn, Ga., asking information in regard to the whereabouts of a young man supposed to be employed in some of the coal mines around here. Anyone who knows any thing about him is asked to please communicate with the Daily News office or with the Raney Medicine Company, Ashburn, Ga. The letter follows:

"We are writing you in regard to a young man, 23 years old, light complexion, light hair, weight 130 pounds, spare made, height about 5 feet, 9 in., who was in your town and mailed a letter to his mother, postmarked December 30.

He went there for the purpose of getting employment among some of the coal mines. He told his mother in the letter that he would write her again in five or ten days, and she has not heard from him since. She fears that he has frozen to death in that cold spell or some other accident has befallen him. His name is Gus Ansley. If you are the editor and likely to know of such happenings we are writing to you.

She had already written to the postmaster who didn't give her any satisfaction at all. She also wrote to the mayor of your city and he refused to answer, and this makes her agonies still worse. We are writing you in behalf of this distressed lady. If you remember no happenings personally of this nature will you please make some inquiry, look over your files, especially of the first and second issues of your paper in January, and see if you can give us any information, any trace of this boy."

Yoke of Oxen Seen On Streets Here Saturday Afternoon

In these days of automobiles, aeroplanes and other means of fast travel one would suppose that the lowly ox, as a draft animal, had ceased to exist. It is no wonder that a pair of oxen, wearing a crude wooden yoke, created no little interest on the streets here Saturday afternoon.

The driver who had been using the animals to "snake" logs in the Higgnite vicinity had sold the oxen and was delivering them to their owner. He assured the bystanders that they were not being driven to the slaughter pen, that they would continue to be used for draft purposes.

CONDITION OF SICK STUDENTS BETTER

No New Cases of Typhoid at I. M. U. —Twenty Nurses Now—Outsiders Generous

Reports from Harrogate today are to the effect that all of the students ill with typhoid fever there are getting along very well. Several new nurses arrived today making a total of 20 nurses now. There are between 35 and 40 sick students. No new cases have developed for two days.

The State Board of Health representatives are as yet unable to find any local cause for the disease and say that it must have been brought in by a carrier. They have examined every possible source that they can think of, they say.

University officers say outside people have been very generous to the sick students, sending them gifts and offering help in every way. The local order of Elks sent a load of supplies over to the sick today and the ladies of the M. E. Church, South, sent them linens last week. Bed linen and old cotton cloths of all kinds are welcome gifts, as are oranges, lemons and eggs, those in charge say.

MC ADOO TELLS HIS RELATIONS WITH DOHENY

Declares He Never Advised With Him On Oil Lease Matter—Urges Speedy Prosecution of All Guilty Persons

SAYS QUESTION TRANSCENDS PARTISAN CONSIDERATION

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—William G. McAdoo emphasized before the senate oil committee today his professional relations with E. L. Doheny, recently terminated were "in good faith" and had nothing to do with leasing the naval oil reserves. He indicated if his name had not been mentioned for high office his private law practice would be of no interest to the committee or to the public. He asserted the faith of the people was shaken in their own government because the oil inquiry development and declared "the imperative duty of the hour is to mercilessly uncover and bring to public scorn and punishment every one who has betrayed public trust or is guilty of wrong doing in this humiliating and dangerous matter." He said the question transcends partisan consideration and declared it would be a crime against the public if dragging innocent people into the affair should divert attention from the guilty and allow them to escape.

McAdoo also told the committee he severed professional relations with Doheny in February, two days after Doheny appeared before the committee and told of McAdoo's employment by his company. McAdoo reiterated Doheny never advised with him about any oil leases and said if he had Doheny "would never have gotten into this difficulty." McAdoo was applauded as he entered and again as he left the committee room.

A THOUGHT

Withhold not good from them to whom it is due, when it is in the power of thine hand to do it.—Prov. 3:27.

MOVE FOR SECRETARY OF EDUCATION

In the tenative plan for the reorganization of the executive departments of the Federal Government, it is suggested that the Bureau of Education be promoted to the dignity of a Cabinet Office. To many it appears that the work of this Bureau justifies this change. At present the Commissioner of Education has charge of the Bureau. It is a branch of the Interior Department and has made great strides in the last decade. It collects statistics and general information showing the condition and progress of education in the United States and all foreign lands; advises state, county and local school officers as to the administration and improvement of schools.

It issues annually a report, a number of bulletins and miscellaneous publications; issues biennially a survey of education; has charge of the schools for the education of children in Alaska, and administers the endowment fund for the support of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanical arts.

The Commissioner is a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Education which has charge of the administration of the acts of Congress providing Federal aid for vocational education in the several states, and rehabilitation and re-education for persons injured in industry. The Commissioner is also a member of the Federal Board of Maternity and Infant Hygiene.

Last year this Bureau distributed more than a million documents touching all plans of education, and eighty thousand copies of reading courses.

An educational field force of more than one hundred persons is maintained in Alaska. Orphanages, school buildings and hospitals were erected in Alaska for the spreading of education.

Thousands of circulars and manuscripts on American colleges and universities, engineering schools, manual arts and industrial education, health teaching in schools and educational conferences, were distributed.

It is needless to say that education is the hope of the Nation. The amount of illiteracy in the country is appalling, notwithstanding the vast number of schools and colleges and universities. Out of a population of eighty-two and a half million persons over ten years of age, the census of 1920 reported nearly five million illiterates.

As the Nation grows older it develops a clearer sense of its needs as a Nation. Accordingly the national activities carried on under Federal auspices are continually increasing.

The fundamental task of the Nation is the education of the entire people. This is a Federal task: a field for Federal supervision, plus the support of the several states.

It is believed that an increasing number that the cause of education is sufficiently important to warrant a place in the Cabinet.

WASTE CAN MOVE COMMENDABLE

Plans for providing the city with sidewalk garbage receptacles now being considered by the Merchants' Association should receive the endorsement and aid of other civic organizations.

Waste cans of the type proposed would not be unsightly: they may be attractively painted and bear artistic advertisements on the sides. The latter feature would defray the expense of the containers and advertisers would be aiding in a worthy civic project.

No argument to the effect that waste cans are needed is necessary. Sidewalks and streets in the business section of town are continually littered with papers and other refuse matter dropped by careless pedestrians. Banana peels and other fruit skins constituting a permanent menace to pedestrians could be deposited in such places and many hard falls would be prevented.

There is no use in trying to keep the sidewalks and streets clean unless some place for refuse matter is provided. Perhaps persons should carry empty paper bags, chewing gum wrappers, fruit skins and other rubbish around with them until they reach some designated dumping ground but a majority of them are disinclined to go to that much trouble. The only way to prevent litter is to provide convenient receptacles for it in public places.

If these are provided, laws making their use compulsory could be passed and enforced, if such ordinances are not already in existence.

Spring and the annual clean-up will soon be here and now is a propitious time to begin plans to make the work less burdensome.

"AT THE END OF THE ROAD"

Workingmen, politicians and financiers are thinking of England where a million of men have been out of work for five years: where the brightest politicians have been turned out of office and where the most clever financiers have met heavy losses.

English labor unions are powerful and have increased wages too high and reduced efficiency so low that English manufacturers are unable to compete in the markets of the world and a million men have been without jobs for five years and there is no work in prospect for them in the near future.

The dissatisfaction arising from this unemployment caused the working men to take control of the English government at the last election on a platform calling for the confiscation of a large part of the wealth of the rich.

American working men are following in the steps of the English and "at the end of the road," they will find no jobs, the politicians will be cast out and the rich man will be robbed. Just now there is employment enough for every one who wants it in our country, and there is little actual need to be found any where. There are no strikes in progress and business in every line is progressing steadily.

Yet, at the same time, union agitators in every line are seeking higher wages and shorter hours, which, if gained, would mean higher prices for products and less output, gradually crowding our manufactured goods, too, out of the markets of competition.

Can we not learn from England a lesson and change our course before it is too late?

THIS LITTLE WORLD

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.—A New Orleans woman owns a big house in Prytania street, back of which is a building almost as large as her mansion. This second building has been made over into modern apartments, but is still unoccupied and will be for some years.

"You see," the owner explained, "I like to gamble. My friends and I have some wonderful games in my sun-parlor. We are screened from the street, and that big tree hides us from our neighbors, but anyone in those apartments could look right down upon us.

"No, sir, I shall keep that apartment building unoccupied until those little trees grow up between those apartments and me."

A New Orleans society woman is now operating a wonderful restaurant in the Patio of the Old Paul Morphy Home in Royal street. In some way it has become noised around that no girl or woman ever said "No" to an importuning lover who wishes to make her his wife, while seated in the old Patio. And so nightly the place is jammed with young and old lovers.

The high enclosing walls are like tapestries of old brick and are crowned by a chevaux-de-frise of brilliant hued glass. The air is tranquil and cloistral. The garden itself is planted with beautiful trees of the magnolia grandiflora. Vines clamber up the stuccoed walls. Huge aloes bristling with Spanish daggers, latanieres and jasmine and marelessa surround lily pools. Always the fountains drip.

There is seclusion from the hurtling world without. When you get tired of romance, you can eat gombo, courtbouillon and pouillebaisse.

Northern beaux who pay court to our beautiful Creole girls, have found their social schedule all scrambled. For two hundred years, Creole custom has been for the belle to retire from the sight of man on Sunday afternoon, and spend that time in bathing, beautifying herself, and taking the long drowsy siesta of the semi-tropics.

But for the northerner, Sunday afternoon is the time for outings and Sunday evening the time for courtship. There have been expostulations and all the rough going of baffled love in many homes.

But the Creole girls hold to the ancient custom. Not even northern love can change the schedule.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—One of the best jazz musical organizations is Waring's Pennsylvanians. Their greatest accomplishment is in the mellow harmony attained in their brass instruments. An organ effect is produced by a brass horn and a trombone, two instruments which in the old days of orchestration were used for jump-jah and glare.

The distinctive tone quality achieved by the brasses of the Pennsylvanians is unequaled by any other jazz orchestra.

In the matter of rhythm Paul Whiteman's band is supreme. Tempo in his orchestra seems to be guided by the banjo, while the stringed instruments seem to predominate. Precision is more easily achieved by stringed instruments than any brasses or reeds.

A notion persists with many that no public entertainment has any great merit unless it has the stamp of Broadway on it. This notion is not confined to the Rialto rounders; it holds with the great mass throughout the country whose numbers flock to see or hear anything that has had a "successful Broadway run."

Art goes where money goes and there is more wealth in New York City than in any other community in the world. However, the name of Art is frequently taken in vain in Gotham.

Waring's orchestra has achieved high artistic merit and considerable fame. It has never played in New York.

The Pennsylvanians started at Penn State College several years ago. Four students played for class and frat dances. Then Fred Daring, the leader, increased the band until it had 11 players and himself. Their first engagement was in Detroit for one week. They remained six. Then they played on the Pacific Coast for three months. I heard them at Washington, D. C. They'll probably play in New York soon. However, their reputation will have been made before they hit Broadway.

Tom Waring, leather of the leader, plays the piano and the harpsichord and sings tenor solos and soprano parts in choruses. Most of the men in the orchestra are as talented vocally as they are instrumentally. At times voices carry the air of the selection. They break in quite spontaneously, revealing the exuberance of youth that motivates the group.

TO START CORBIN ROAD LINE

Engineers Ready To Begin Right Away—No Hitch In Construction Expected

CORBIN, Feb. 11.—Representatives of the Peters Construction Co., of Knoxville, which firm was awarded the contract for the construction of the Corbin-Barbourville link of the Dixie highway was in Corbin last week looking after the interest of the work of the firm on the Dixie link would be started in a short time and that it would be pushed in every way possible. The work will be started will be started from three points and from each of these it will be carried out separately, until the entire link is completed.

That there will be no hitch in the work on the part of the state. Mr. Holt stated that he was sure. The only thing to halt the work at any time to be the weather conditions in his opinion.

The work will be started from Corbin, Grays and Barbourville and from each of these three places seperate crews will be engaged. Under competent superintendents, these crews will be rushed at every point possible that the laying of the concrete may be completed without any more delay than is absolutely necessary, he stated. The work of grading the road is being pushed and the higher points are quickly disappearing under pressure of steam shovels and gangs of laborers, he stated. This part of the work will soon be finished and then the actual construction of the concrete roadbed will be started.

What Can You Do Toward Bringing Them Here?

Berton Braley's Poem

SALESMANSHIP

Though the gift of gab is good to grab
The ear of a possible buyer,
And a stock of charm can do no harm
And is valuable to acquire:
You can lack 'em all if the buyers fall
For the goods that you sell, by heck,
If you make 'em sign on the dotted line
And hand you a certified check!

Though your selling talk be a thing to mock
And your manner be wrong as well,
You needn't mind if you only find
You sell what you've got to sell.
Though theorists jeer when your words they hear,
Don't worry, you're still on deck
If the buyers sign on the dotted line
And hand you a certified check.

In any old game it is just the same,
A fact which you can't deny,
That method is best by actual test
Which causes the world to buy.
If it's understood that the goods are good,
That salesman is best by heck,
Who makes 'em sign on the dotted line
And hands him a certified check.

Buzz! Buzz! That's what he does.

The Twins guessed this riddle right away. See if you can:

"Buzz! Buzz! That's what he does,
Like a hungry mosquito at night,
Loafs by the hour on blossom and flower
Sipping rose-wine with all of his might.

"Hum! Hum! Does he never get done?
My goodness! He's dreadfully busy,
I just can't see the use of so much blossom juice.
Indigestion will make him quite dizzy!

"Zing! Zing; What a queer way to sing!
Darting this way and now darting that!
Did he get the wrong flower? Perhaps it was sour,
Well, that's good for folk who are fat.

"Like prosperous people he wears a rich cloak,
Of velvet striped yellow and black.
But instead of gold money, he carries gold honey,
Not a pocket-bookful—but a sack.

"Now he's making a dive for his house called a hive.
Do you think that he's ill? It's a question!
I don't know, I can't say, but it's likely he may
Just be taking a pill for digestion."

"It's a bee!" cried Nick.

"Yes sir! That's what it is," said the Riddle Lady. "You are a smart little boy to guess so quickly. You get the prize, a piece of bread and butter and honey."

"I was just going to say the answer myself," suddenly spoke up the Six-Pence Queen. "I just knew it was a bee. And I was about to open my mouth and say 'bee' just like that when that little boy said it. I think I should have half of his bread and honey."

"Well, goodness knows, anybody could tell it was a bee," said still another person. It was small Tom Tucker. "I knew it was a bee the minute you said 'buzz.' Missez Riddle Lady. "I think I ought to have half of the bread and butter and honey myself."

"We guessed it, too!" called out half a dozen of the Old Shoe Woman's Children. "We thought it was a bee, or a bug or something like that. And as we always get our broth without any bread, we think we ought to have half too!"

"My goodness!" cried the Riddle Lady. "How many halves do you think this piece of bread has? But there! I have an idea. Nancy, you and Nick and the Pickaninny and Bakerman can fix up a party. We'll have a real party and plenty of bread and honey and cakes for everybody."

February

February sleeping lies!
Winds, be still lest you awake her.

Snows, fall softly from the skies,
For a spring, that ancient magic maker
Sends soft dreams before her eyes—
Winds, be still, lest you awake her.

Neither bud nor bloom forgot,
February yet remembers,
She has hoarded Summer's embers,
Underneath each garden-plot
Tulip, rose, forget-me-not,
February yet remembers.

Now, while snowflakes fill the air,
She has dreamed a bluebird calling,
Seen the cherry bloom and pear
White as any snowflake falling
Snow and cold are everywhere,
She has dreamed a bluebird calling.

She has dreamed of daffodils,
Violets in each wildflower hollow,
Flash of snowdrops, blue of squills,
Song of lark and flight of swallow;
February's dreaming fills
April wood and wildflower hollow

February's dreaming mocks
At the snowdrifts for a pillow,
She sees little lambs in flocks,
In windy March the glad young willow
Shaking out her yellow locks—

Friends of Miss Patsy Kinnaird learned yesterday of her marriage in Birmingham, Ala., Saturday night, to R. D. Webb of Mobile, Ala., professor in chemistry in Birmingham Southern College. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John Privett, and was performed by Dr. Dobbins, pastor of the Highland Presbyterian church in Birmingham. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. W. J. Kinnaird and is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Doom of this city. She is a beautiful girl and has a very large circle of friends in Middlesboro who wish her all happiness. Mrs. Webb was born in Middlesboro and lived here until, with her mother, she moved to Birmingham about two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Webb will take a wedding trip to New Orleans and then return to Birmingham where they will make their home.

Protein, 305 calories; fat, 370 calories; carbohydrate, 308 calories. Iron, .0136 gram.

The bacon should be cooked until most of the fat is removed. The herring should be simply broiled and seasoned with salt and pepper and lemon juice. No butter.

Butter, cream and rich milk are taboo in the diet of the person who would gain a sylph-like figure.

Combination Salad

Four teaspoons minced celery, 4 tablespoons thinly sliced radishes, 4 tablespoons cottage cheese, 4 green pepper, salt, pepper and paprika.

Combine celery, radishes and cheese and season with salt and pepper. Arrange on lettuce, sprinkle with paprika and garnish with green pepper.

Gain Weight

One apple, 2 slices of bacon, 4 cornmeat griddle cakes, 1 broiled herring, 1 cup creamed potatoes, combination salad (3-4 cup), 8 tablespoons tomato bouillon, 2 broiled lamb chops, 8 tablespoons canned string beans, 8 tablespoons scalloped potatoes, 1-2 head lettuce, 2 large halves canned peaches, 3 cubic inches sponge cake, 3 tablespoons cream, 4 tablespoons oil, 4 half-inch slices of bread, 2 cups cocoa, 2 cups rich milk.

Protein, 500 calories; fat, 1300 calories; carbohydrate, 1855 calories. Iron, .0149 gram.

The bacon for this menu should be cut thicker and be well cooked, but the fat should be used, for bacon has much caloric value for the thin person.

Butter, cream and rich milk should be used in excess as they are fat producers and of great caloric value.

Sleep is a great aid in gaining weight. Enough exercise in fresh air to provoke an appetite is also necessary. From eight to 10 hours sleep is as imperative as a diet rich in fats and carbohydrates.

The essay contest is open to boys and girls in high schools and secondary schools throughout the nation and the subjects may be chosen from the six following: The Relation of Chemistry to Health and Disease, to the Enrichment of Life, to Agriculture and Forestry, to National Defense, to the Home, to the Development of the Industries and Resources of Your State. The best essay in Kentucky on each of these subjects will be awarded twenty dollars in gold, the prizewinners to be announced by a Kentucky Committee, which will also designate the recipient of the University of Kentucky Scholarship; six prize essays will then be sent on to the national committee headed by Herbert Hoover and well-known scientists of America, which will select the winners of the Yale and Vassar scholarships. The length of the essays is limited to 2500 words.

PRINCE OF WALES, 'CHAMP DRUMMER' OFF TO AFRICA ON NEXT TRIP, INCREASING HIS MILEAGE TO 100,000

LONDON, Feb. 11.—On May 2 next Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David Windsor—the champion "drummer" of the world—will pack his grip and set sail on the Union Castle liner, Arundel Castle, for Cape Town and all points north, south, east and west in the Union of South Africa.

He will take with him for free distribution a very winning smile, a happy facility in public speaking, a certain shyness of manner, and a fundamental democratic habit of mixing with all kinds and conditions of men in every part of the world. And by means of these things he will "sell" one more huge section of the globe the idea of British Empire and renewed loyalty to the British royal family.

For this particular Edward Windsor is the Prince of Wales.

When he completes the contemplated trip he will have covered more ground and will have seen more of the British Empire than any member of the family in its entire history.

His total mileage by land and sea will be well over 100,000. It is divided about as follows:

Canadian trip late summer of 1919:
By sea ..... 7,000 miles
By land in Canada and U. S. A. ..... 6,500 miles

Australian-New Zealand trip in the spring of 1920:
By sea ..... 32,000 miles
By land in Austria and New Zealand ..... 8,000 miles

Indian trip, 1921-1922:
By sea ..... 26,000 miles
By land in India, Ceyon etc. ..... 4,000 miles

Contemplated South African trip:
By sea ..... 16,000 miles
By land ..... 4,000 miles

The trip of the coming May will be unlike his other great visits to British dominions and dependencies in that he will not travel on the warship Renown, but will go on the biggest regular South African liner. He will have a special suite of apartments prepared for him on the promenade deck. He is due to arrive at Cape Town on May 19 where he will be formally welcomed to South Arica by his kinsman, the Earl of Athlone, who is the new governor general, and by General Smuts, the great Boer soldier and statesman, who is the prime minister.

The extent of his travels will be limited by the fact that he will only be able to devote two months to the tour.

His furthest objective north will be the great Victoria Falls, said to be even bigger and grander than our own Niagara Falls.

The prince, who has hunted wild game in western Canada, tigers in India and kangaroos in Australia, will here have the opportunity of shooting lions, leopards, rhinoceroses, hippipotmi and elephants.

While in Rhodesia he will visit the grave of Cecil Rhodes, to whose initiative a huge slice of British African territory is due.

He will be taken into the deep level gold mines in Johannesburg and the great diamond mines of Kimberley and will visit the principal South African battlefields where Briston and Boer fought each other on many a stubbornly contested field.

He will see Briston and Boer making a new nation together, just as in eastern Canada he saw Briston and French-Canadian doing the same thing.

When he sets sail for home, the prince will have definitely brought to a conclusion his series of visits to the various parts of the empire and will then probably stay in or near England for some time to come.

GASOLINE PRICE PROBE IS ORDERED

Coolidge Calls Inquiry At Request Of Governors Of Two States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The Department of Justice will immediately set in motion its machinery to go to the bottom of charges by Governor McMaster, of South Dakota, that "allied interests of the Standard Oil" had cornered the crude oil supply and enhanced gasoline prices. The department action has been taken up on instructions from President Coolidge, to whom was directed today a tlegram from the South Dakota governor setting forth his charges and also a similar message from Governor Bryan, of Nebraska.

Shortly after the announcement that the President had ordered an inquiry into the gasoline and crude oil situation, former Representative Campbell, of Kansas, speaking for the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, submitted to the executive a statement giving reasons for fluctuation of crude oil and gasoline prices in the last year. Mr. Campbell suggested that the operations of the economic law of supply and demand alone were responsible for the fluctuating prices.

The President's instructions, it was said at the Department of Justice, would mean a broadcasting of an inquiry which has been under way many months. United States attorneys long have had instructions, officials added, to aid local officials in efforts to run down monopolistic tendencies of all kinds and those orders, it was emphasized, apply to oil and gasoline as well as any other commodities.

Although there has been constant observations of conditions in the oil industry, department officials said there would now be an intensive study of the situation of which the two state executives have complained.

Governor McMaster declared in his telegram that South Dakota had "performed its duty in preventing excess profits in the distribution business" and called upon the federal government to check excess profits in the refining of gasoline.

The department is prepared to study both phases of the industry, how-mission, which also was directed today by the President to inquire into the situation, is considering its course in the matter. The commission already has much data bearing on the questions involved and a review of that will be made to determine its further course.

GAME AND FISH COMMISSION PUBLISHES RECOMMENDATION FOR WORK IN KENTUCKY

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., February 11.—Activities of the Game and Fish Commission are commended in a report made public today by the Efficiency Commission. In its conclusions, the survey agency reports as follows:

"The work of the Game and Fish Commission, in spite of the fact that it has been handicapped by statutory restrictions and subjected to political changes and influences, is such as to deserve commendation. There are inefficiencies in the organization but it has nevertheless brought about results. This is due largely, it is believed, to the wholehearted interest in conservation that the present incumbent of the office of the executive agent possesses. We doubt whether there is much popular interest in the protection of game and fish and when measured against some other state activities, a great expenditure could probably not be justified. But the existence of this Commission should not involve any net expense. It should, in fact, serve to bring in revenue at the same time that it conserves the resources of the state and by the adoption of the suggestions made in this report it could bring in considerably more revenue than it now does, and could be made even more effective in its conservation work."

A number of proposals are offered in the report with regard to the work, organization and policies of the Game and Fish Commission.

The following recommendations, according to the report, do not involve additional legislation:

(1) A force of selected, salaried wardens should be organized, the men to be selected because of their fitness and ability, and paid an adequate salary for full time work, $1,500 a year being suggested.

Replace Fee System

(2) Some bonus system should be worked out as a reward for, and incentive to, the securing of results as a substitution for the fee system now in effect. It is proposed, as one of the recommendations requiring legislation, that all fines and costs should be paid to the state.

(3) The policy and procedure with regard to expenses should be put on a thoroughly business-like basis. Transportation charge should be paid.

(4) It will probably be a move in the direction of material economy to give the members and the force of wardens, if recruited and supervised as indicated above, the use each of a low-priced automobile.

(5) The office force should at the first opportunity be reorganized.

(6) A closer relationship should be effected between the Commission and the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State Board of Health in order that these two state agencies may keep each other advised regarding stream pollution.

(7) An appropriation should be made the Commission in giving publicity to the purposes and requirements of the conservation laws. Such publicity could take the form of bulletins, or posters and placards dealing with fish and game protection and is tended to educate the public along lines of conservation.

The following proposals require action by the legislature and the amendment of the present fish and game laws:

(1) The executive agent should be flowed a higher salary. He should also be secretary of the Commission. As has been suggested above, in place of the secretary there should be the position of chief clerk and bookkeeper.

Choose Wardens by Merit

(2) Provision should be made that the executive agent, superintendent of wardens, and wardens, and in fact all the employees of the Department, will be selected on the basis of merit and secured in their positions during good behavior. Something at least in this respect can be done in several ways even though no State civil service laws are enacted. The members of the Commission might be required to conduct an examination or "fitness test" and be given the power of removal.

(3) It should be provided that all revenues from licenses and fines and other sources for which the Department is directly or indirectly responsible be paid into the State Treasury and that the Department's maintenance be appropriated for the legislature under a budget system.

(4) Consideration should be given to making the penalties at present provided by law more severe. The local magistrates should be encouraged, perhaps as part of the propaganda suggested above, to inflict heavier fines.

(5) A joint hunting and fishing license should be provided.

A joint hunting and fishing license is discussed as follows:

"A joint hunting and fishing license has been recommended for a number of years by the Commission. A number of states provide such a joint license and others provide an anglers' license. The commission expends a large sum each year in distributing fish and restocking the streams of the state in addition to the warden service and it is only fair that fishermen should be licensed as well as hunters. A joint license fee of $1.00 a year would give the commission an income of more than $100,000 a year and would not be an unfair tax upon any person wishing to fish.

Duties and Costs

"An average staff of about fifteen full-time salaried wardens is maintained. This number varies from twelve to eighteen, a number of wardens being out for the first few months in the year when there is little work to be done. These wardens receive $75.00 per month and their traveling expenses. In addition to this, the law provides that upon obtaining a conviction, they shall be paid one-half the fine assessed by the court and $5 for costs. In addition to these fines, the commission provides an additional reward by turning back to the wardens effecting a successful prosecution, the other half of the fine collected as a reward. The state thus makes no profit on the penalties imposed upon violators of the law.

"Each of the paid wardens is assigned to a group of counties and should, therefore, spend a large part of his time traveling about. A warden is allowed from $2 to $5 per day for the use of his own automobile, depending upon the time involved, and receives a similar sum for the use of a motor boat if he owns one. Daily reports of work performed, persons interviewed, and expenses are made out by each warden and forwarded to the commission, which sends the duplicate copy to the state auditor. The reports sent in by the wardens are inadequately filled out and are not designed either to give complete information about their work or afford a check on their expenditures. A better form should be prepared and ought to be designed to cover the activities of an entire week. If a supervised force or wardens as suggested here were organized, it would be an economy for the state to provide small popular-priced automobiles.

"In addition to the small force of paid wardens, there are nearly 600 unpaid volunteer wardens on the commission's records."

A FEW SUGGESTIONS ON DOING IT WHEN YOU HAVE CHARGE ACCOUNTS

Principally it is a matter of keeping track of your monthly bills and seeing to it that they are paid when they are due. If you make a practice of settling in full by the tenth of the month, you can be sure that your personal credit rating is high. You are, indeed, watching your credit.

Letting your bills go over to the second month, letting them go until you get a special dun for payment or letting them go until the collector comes after you, whether you do it carelessly or deliberately, means that you are abusing your credit and hurting your credit rating.

If unexpected circumstances make it necessary for you to have additional time, by all means let the credit department in any store concerned know when you can meet the obligation. You will find a general willingness to meet you halfway, and you can thus protect your credit and avoid getting classed as slow pay.

Your personal credit in the stores is the same as money. When you destroy or impair your credit, you are wasting money.

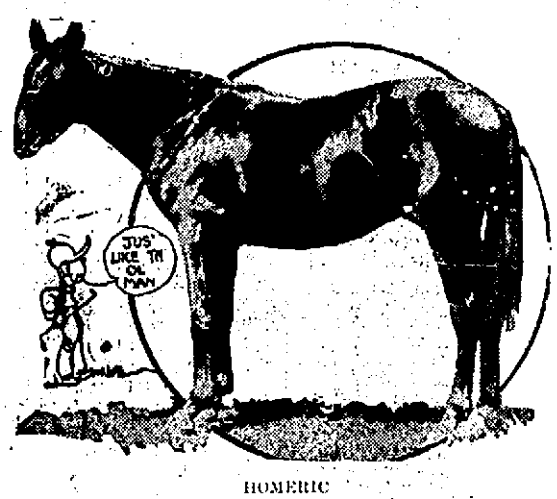
He's Just Like His Dad



HOMERIC

Turf experts marvel at the likeness between the great Man o' War and Homeric, a two-year-old sired by that illustrious horse. The phrase "he's just like dad," certainly applies to Homeric.

In a number of trials over short distances Homeric has shown to decide advantage and there are many who believe that he will prove to be the fastest of the 12 Man o' War children that make their debut this year as two-year-olds.

Blackstone at the Mauring February 18 and 19.

The Honorable Mayor and Board of Commissioners,
City of Middlesboro,
Middlesboro, Ky.
Gentlemen:

I understand that D. C. Sellers has placed his application for Chief of Police. If a change is necessary at this time, I consider Mr. Sellers' record as deputy sheriff has proven him to be a fearless and efficient in the enforcement of the law. I do not think that he is committed in any way which would hinder him in discharging the duties of Chief of Police in the same manner.

Such being the case, I hope you will give Mr. Sellars' application due consideration in making the new appointment.

Yours very truly,
F. R. WHALIN.

NOTICE

I have been employed by Steve White to look after his business and affairs and I am informed that numerous people have been going to Mrs. Russell's home and interfering with him and this is to notify everybody that if they want to know anything about Steve White I am in a position to tell them and if they want to know anything about his estate no one can tell anything definitely about it at this time.

I trust that the respect for a widow's home and the home of her orphan girl and the fact that she is giving attention to an old, infirm and very sick man will prevent people from going to Mrs. Russell's flat and exciting Mr. White. He is in a highly nervous state and any conversation with him at all causes Mrs. Russell to have to expend an hour or two in getting him calmed down and at rest.

If the respect that is due to a private home and to a widow and her orphan girl and an aged and infirm man, who had no one else to take him in and no home in Middlesboro was open to him except Mrs. Russell's, though his friends seem to be numerous since it has been learned he is entitled to a large fortune does not deter people who have no interest in this man or did not have any before he was reported wealthy, from interfering with the conduct of this home, then they will have to answer to the Law.

This notice is to everybody to stay away from this man and let him alone. If the treatment that he has received from newspaper men and business men is continued, who would not for a minute stand any one in their home they didn't want there, then the law will take its course.

JOHN HOWARD.
